The truth about Dental Insurance

The average American spends between $1800-$2500 on dental insurance per year. Typically, this is directly deducted by their employer in the case of employer sponsored dental plans, and paid directly by the subscriber in the case of self-funded plans.

If I get dental insurance will my Dental procedures be covered?

Unfortunately, very few dental procedures are covered at 100%. Typically only preventative or diagnostic procedures are covered at 100%, this usually includes bitewing x-rays every six months and prophylaxis cleanings. Other dental treatments such as crowns, fillings and deep cleanings are not typically covered at
